being unaccustomed to the frosts and storms of these high allitudes and the different methods of raising crops by the control of the series of the series over the rugged mountains from Cache Valley, Utah, a distance of 35 miles, the roads being mere trails, rocky, sidling, and without bridges over the rugged mountains from Cache Valley, Utah, a distance of 35 miles, the roads being mere trails, rocky, sidling, and without bridges over the wild, swift mountain streams to settle such a county, none but the stronger and most determined could accomplish; so bleak and sterile was one setting of the league will be held on September 18, at the old federal court room, and the following address was issued yesterday:

Within the past year what has been apily described, as the "new municipal spirit." has been making unprecedented headway in many of the large cities of gur country. The sober thought of the American people cannot but lead them to thoroughly endorse this revival of the spirit of 1775. In too many of our communities it is a regettable fact that bad government has apparently firmly entrenched itself, and mainly for two reasons: In the first place a lack of interest on the part of the better element in the proceedings at the primaries, the vast majority remaining away while the professional politicians run things to suit themselves, selecting candidates for office whose reputzition for honesty and canability in too many lostances will not bear close scrutivy; and secondly, the seeming lack of respect for our laws and municipal ordinances, of which we have had abundant tillustration during the progress of the last strike. When those whose sworn duty that the whose had sever ment and the certainty that they are persevering and industriation of which we have had abundant tillustration on the progress of the last strike. When those whose sworn duty that they are persevering and industr the seeming lack of respect for our laws and municipal ordinances, of which we have had abundant illustration during the progress of the last strike. When those whose sworn duty it is to administer the laws, without fear or favor, suffer this or that ordinance to become inoperative, it is not to be wendered at that certain sections of the community consider themselves privileged to ignore whatever have are calculated, in their opimion, to reader their business unremunerative; or from other reasons are poculiarly chnoxious to them. To recognize the right of any individual, company or corporation, to determine what laws they shall obey, and what ignore, at once pawes the way to livense—that unjustifiable interference with the liberty of the community as a whole, which is the keynote of our constitution—and which if unchecked will drive us to the verge of anarchy and social disruption. Hence, the cry that our laws and ordinances should be enforced by capable officers, aided by the moral sunnort of the com-that our laws and ordinances should be enforced by capable officers, aided by the moral support of the community, is one that should not be disregarded.

There has been started recently in our city an organization bearing the name "The Good Citizenship League of Salt Lake City" The reasons leading to the formation of such a league are as follows:

1st. Laxness in the enforcement of law.

2nd. Lack of interest shown by citizens in the selection and election of good and upright men to office.

3rd. The existence of evils in our midst which tend to corrupt the morals of the community.

The existence of evils in our midst which tend to corrupt the morals of the community.

zens in the selection and election of good and upright men to office.

3rd. The existence of evils in our midst which tend to corrupt the morals of the community.

The league is not a third party movement. It does not propose to go outside of existing party lines, believing that all needed reforms can be inaugurated and consummated through existing political channels. It seeks to wrest the control of the primaries from the lawless, disreputable and office-seeking element, and place it in the han 's of patriotic, law-abiding citizens, so that whether the city is governed by Republicans or Democratis is not so much a matter of concern as whether the administration of municipal affairs is in the hands of honest, intelligent.

To the fact that a want of tone in the "Parriotism, honesty and cipa-the qualifications of the office-" is one of the mottoes of the is in the hands of honest, intelligent billity the qualifications of the olice holder." Is one of the motioes of the league.

The work undertaken can be describbled in the language of the City Club of New York, which aims to be "persistently, consistently and impending danger, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This benignant tonic promotes, in no ordinary degree, digestion and assimilation, through which the blood is fertilized and made strength-yielding. Besides this inactivity of the liver, bowels and kindeys, which impede a gain of vigor, is overcome. Appetite, as well as the ability to gratify it without discomfort, is stimulated by this thorough which permits citizens to overlook maladuthistration of office, until it becomes so unendurable as to make opposition easier than submission." comes so unendumble as to make position easier than submission."

The work of the lengue will be performed by a central council and by branch organizations in each of the five precincts of the city. The object of league is not to dictate to the cithow he shall vote; simply to educate the voting public along the three lines which we claim are the three great tests of good citizenship.

Will Reopen on the 19th of September.

will Reopen on the 19th of September.

The first test is interestedness. Disinterestedness in politics, now so often the boast of our citizens, is culpable and indeed criminal in a city of this size, where the issues of political action are so far-reaching in their influence. Apathetic unconcern is responsible for municipal corruption and social degradation." We contend that every citizen is under obligation to take a lively interest in political and social affairs.

"The second test is that good citizenship shall be intelligent citizenship, incorance is unpardonable where knowledge is accessible." By the public press we will reach every one in this community. Information is the basis of all effort to overthrow evils. Nothing is so unanswerable as facts. Careful investigation of methods now used in our city of enforcing the law will be made and facts published. There is not a reform of our time that would not leap to prominence and success if the people were in possession of mour city of enforcing the law will be made and facts published. There is not a reform of our time that would not lear to prominence and success if the people were in possession of the facts concerning it. These facts will be placed before the public and when the time to vote comes, the citizens will be inspossession of that information which will enable them to vote right. We cannot keep ourselves too well informed on the evils of intemperance and gambiling. The facts in relation to these and other c tis will be brought before the public so often that the citizen will was educated in this direction.

The third test is that there is such a thing as good citizenship and public morals, and that it is possible to reach the one and attain the other. We do not believe that there is any necessary permanency in organized inquity. The sistantic evils of our time now so rampant in our city are preventable.

Such are the objects of the League and such the lines upon which the premoters of the organization hope to reach these objects. To aid in accomplishing this desirable result, "The sinual meeting will be held on Scotlember 18th, at which time a central council will be elected, and it is desired that they be chosen by a large voite of those who, by becoming members of the organization, express in this manner their desire to see Sait Lake city take her place as the moral and possibility take her place as the moral and possibility takes her place as the moral and possibility to the proposes.
